Cost values in the established model increase linearly. Optimal value of α from between 0.0001 and 0.001 is best since planned objective function values are mostly bounded around zero. The cost factor, α , will also play role in the total losses minimization. It is observed that total losses decrease as α increases.

A Tailor Called Sorrow

Yesterday in drizzling rain
on the road,
depression came
with its scissors open.
He put unhappy shirts
around the necks
of children,
and stitched black markings
on the lives of the others.

Around the red faces
the tailor called sorrow
let a cloth with death silk
in it
hang,
and mingled white basting thread
in their hair.
